TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1893.

He will constantly endeavor to advance the interests and prosperity of both GOVERNMENTS and so render himself acceptable to Your Excellency.—Cleveland to Dole, Accrediting Minister Willis.

GOOD CHEER FROM CLEVELAND.

The policy of the United States towards Hawaii, so far as it concerns the status of the Provisional Government, appears in this expressive clause of the letter of credence borne by Minister Willis from President Cleveland to President Dole:

He will constantly endeavor to advance the interest and prosperity of both GOVERNMENTS and so render himself acceptable to YOUR EXCELLENCY.

It must appear to the most casual thinker that Minister Willis cannot advance the interest and prosperity of the Provisional Government in a way that will be acceptable to its President, without maintaining a friendly policy towards it. Certainly, such instructions as he is bound by are incompatible with a policy on the part of the great republic of restoring the dethroned Queen to power by force or otherwise.

THREADBARE STRATEGY.

Leaders of the Royalist crowd, as a party measure, and contrary to their own beliefs, are impudently saying that Mrs. Dominis will again be Queen.

The object of this strategy is to give a prostrate cause something to live upon. The schemers try to make the credulous believe that, by some mysterious method, certain information has been gained, which will make their prediction a verity.

Let us inform the Royalists that they might as well try to bring a corpse to life by telling it that next week or next year, when a certain spotted pig wags its tail, the cadaver will be able to take a morning walk to the Pali, as to revive the dead tissue of the Monarchy by "private tips" from adventurers at Washington.

In a very able address before the students of Union College Hon. Chas. A. Dana, of the New York Sun, spoke of Horace Greeley's antipathy to the college-bred journalist. We recall the fact, however, that Mr. Greeley's objections to this class of newspaper workers did not extend much farther than words. When it came to a choice of lieutenants the great editor turned to such men of collegiate training as Mr. Dana himself, Charles J. Raymond, afterwards editor of the Times; Whitelaw Reid, John Russell Young, Dr. George Ripley and Charles T. Congdon. He knew better than to employ writers who had been subject to his own scholastic deficiencies but who might not have had the native genius to overcome them. In this conclusion he was altogether wise, inasmuch as a great newspaper which, like Lord Bacon, takes all knowledge for its province, must have at its command men of the widest and most versatile education to be found in the field of periodical literature.

If the old opponents of manifest destiny in the United States had obtained their way the great republic would have been a comparatively small country. That is to say, it would have been bounded on the south by Florida and the northern line of the French possessions and on the west by the Mississippi. All the Gulf region, including Texas, all the Pacific coast, and all that empire west of the father of waters included in the Louisiana purchase, and in aboriginal preserves, would have either been under an European flag or in status as a savage waste. That was what the Nordhoffs of the time were willing to permit, lest, indeed, the new republic should find its young shoulders overburdened with territorial possessions. Providentially, the carping opponents of continental extension were held in check. It is a pity, now that Hawaii is in the scale, that their breed could not have been extinguished altogether.

THE Holomua imagines that the recall of Admiral Stanton for saluting the insurgent flag of Brazil reflects upon the course of the late Captain Wiltse here. This is very far fetched. All the salutary ever done to the Provisional authorities by American representatives in port followed the protectorate of Mr. Stevens and the recognition of the new Government by the President of the United States. In the Brazilian case is no parallel as the United States have not even acknowledged the belligerent rights of the rebels and a salute to their flag was most untimely and unwarrantable.

I find it advocated that American citizens should be invited to go to Honolulu to occupy Government posts from which "Royalists" (that is, Hawaiians and others opposed to annexation) were to be ousted.—T. H. Dole.

We doubt that you do, Mr. Davies. That is not the thing advocated at all. The appeal for a change in the personnel of Government officers rests upon the assumption that there are enough competent men in Hawaii, loyal to the annexationist cause, to fill the posts now held by white and native sympathizers of monarchy. Some of these loyal men are of Hawaiian blood, and one of them has already supplanted the old Customs Collector at Hilo. May we ask you to point out any invitation to American citizens to come here to hold office? The STAR has never heard before of such a blunder being made.

THE thorough committal of Secretary Herbert to the new naval policy shows that the work begun and carried on by Secretaries Chandler, Whitney and Tracy will not lag at his hands. Given the legislation by Congress, Mr. Herbert may be expected to make the most of it. It is a highly fortunate circumstance that both the great parties in the United States are a unit for the extension of American power on the sea.

ADMIRAL SKERRETT departed this morning for his new duties, the nature of which is not precisely known. As the STAR has before said he will always be welcome here in future for his character as an officer and a gentleman and for his true Americanism. No other United States naval commander has been a greater favorite in this city and port.

It is recalled with some amusement now that the disgraced naval paymaster, J. C. Sullivan, was quite virtuous in his denunciation here last February of the "dishonesty" of the Provisional people in taking away the "rights of the Queen."

A NOBLE of the kingdom under arrest for smuggling opium, so help us! This is tough; but after all, of such was the kingdom of Liliuokalani. Why was not she the one to bail out such a faithful pupil of the free opium policy?

It is safe to say that no court of inquiry will be organized to whitewash the man who ran the City of New York on the rocks. They do these things better in America.

ARRIVAL OF ADMIRAL IRWIN

Who Assumes Command of the North Pacific Station.

Quite unexpectedly the steamship China, which arrived from Hongkong and Yokohama last night at 8 o'clock, brought among her passengers for this port Rear Admiral John Irwin, U. S. N., and a party of eight. The coming of Admiral Irwin was a surprise to the naval officers here, as he has only been on the China station about six months. The Admiral states that he only received his orders a day or two before the China left Hongkong, and knows nothing whatever of the causes which led to the change being made. In the Admiral's party are Lieutenant Adams, Ensign Parmenter, Mrs. Parmenter, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Irwin, Miss Irwin, John Irwin Jr., and Dr. W. E. Taylor, the latter being a retired medical inspector of the United States Navy and a brother-in-law of Admiral Irwin. The latter is a brother of R. W. Irwin, the agent of the Hawaiian Government in Yokohama.

HUNTINGTON'S CLOSE ECONOMY

Even String and Paper Preserved for Further Use.

It is told of C. P. Huntington that recently, upon his receiving a small package, a relative discarded the paper and twine, throwing them into the waste-paper basket. Mr. Huntington arose, and continuing his talk with some gentlemen present, apparently unconscious took the paper out of the basket, neatly folded it, and taking care of the string, placed them both in a drawer for further use. One of the party remarking that was close economy, Mr. Huntington replied that between that and extravagance there was a wide gap. But Mr. Huntington in 1849 ran a hardware store in California and paper and twine were not readily obtained, and he probably acquired the habit of closely saving those two articles.—Hardware.

A sailor by the name of O'Neill, serving on board the Independence, being tired of life, obtained a pistol and put himself out of existence. He was buried in the Naval Cemetery. He was always considered a good man by his companions in arms.

THE NAVY IN VERSE.

A Honolulu Society Girl Pours Out Her Soul in Rhyme.

We acknowledge the receipt of this poem from a young lady member of Honolulu's Four Hundred:

There's the good ship Mo-he-can,
Built when nature first began;
In the north she leads the van,
Catching seafarers if she can.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There's the Adams, see her go,
Dignified, but very slow.
All her officers you should know,
For on their backs no seaweeds grow.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There's the Iroquois renowned,
She's the ship that covers ground;
From Hawaii to South Sea bound,
Goes by way of Puget Sound,
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There's the little cruiser Thetis,
Never lingers where the fleet is;
Cruising where the snow and sleet is,
All her men have tonsillitis.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There's the cruiser Albatross,
Of the fleet she is the boss;
Cruising mid the snow and ice,
With the flag of strange device.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There is the good ship Alliance,
In her we can place reliance;
When it comes to skill and science,
(To the rest she throws defiance.)
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

Of all the ships that are afloat
In waters near or far remote,
There's one on which the girls all dote;
So for the Charleston cast your vote.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

There's the little cruiser Yorktown;
In the South she gained renown;
When the Chileans saw her frown
Every mother's son backed down.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

Of the Boston we should brag,
She's the one that raised the flag;
Gave us peace in Hawaii ere;
We shall ne'er regret the day.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

Then comes the Phil-a-del-phi-a;
In spite of what the Royalists say,
The monarchy that's all decay
Will ne'er see restoration day.
Tra-la, tra-la, &c.

The Cyclorama Company.

The prospects of this company are more than flattering and stockholders will be pleased to learn on good authority that two more dividends will shortly be declared. Five dividends in six months ought to satisfy almost anyone, especially with the earnings of a six-months' run at the San Francisco Fair still to come.
